FOR WEEK ENDING: 11/12/25

Prices Shown - Average to Top Quality

Plants and Seasonal Sundries

The Wreath trade seems to have had the guts ripped out of it, with many entries proving difficult to sell, despite the excellent quality on show. This allows plants to step out of the shadows and onto the main stage. Schlumbergera “Christmas Cacti” see a healthy demand helping to clear all entries daily. Both miniature patio and the larger indoor Cyclamens are back in favour with prices firming up as the week progresses. With a lack of “Niger” varieties to be seen, “Oriental” Hellebores “take up the baton”. Potted Hyacinth sales are buoyant, with ordinary potted entries through to “mossed, with sleeve” both proving popular.

Cut Flowers

It's a case of standing room only in our flower hall this week, with row after row of floral fancies on display. Mix bundles see the strongest demand, with a bumper bevy of bouquets and exotic bouquets all gobbled up by voracious bidders. The last few local Lilies of the season draw a host of bids from admiring buyers. Lower volumes of Daffodils entered results in prices rocketing for all quality entries. An awesome array of Alstroemeria's are the pick of the crop for imported lines.

Description	Per:	Average		Best
Alstroemeria	Bunch	£0.75	-	£1.25
